
From: [REDACTED] >
Sent: Friday, February 10, 2012 5:31 PM
To: Ian Osborne
Subject: Re:

Yes of course. St. Thomas is the easiest option from JE's island.

On Feb 10, 2012, at 12:27 PM, Ian Osborne wrote:

[REDACTED],

Thank you. I actually now need to stop in London first for one day then to HK. My travel agent thinks the best option is via Washington DC and the 220pm Continental flight from STT. Is this OK for the transfer?

Best wishes,

Ian

On Feb 10, 2012 11:55 AM, "[REDACTED]" <mailto:[REDACTED]> wrote:

Hi Ian..

I'm trying to sort out your departure info. for Sunday. You mentioned you will be flying from JE's island to Hong Kong. Are you planning on going straight from the island to Hong Kong, or making any stops along the way? I was speaking to Jeffrey and he mentioned if you are going straight to Hong Kong, he thinks it would make more sense for you to fly back to NY then take the nonstop NY to Hong Kong.

But, if you need to go to Paris first, then obviously it would make more sense to do St.Maarten to Paris. I'm just trying to sort out if I need to arrange for the heli to take you to St.Maarten, etc.

Also, just wondering if you want to go to JFK with [REDACTED] in the morning, or would you rather make your own way to the airport?

Let me know. Thanks..

[REDACTED]